

FRENCH HOLD ENTIRE SOUTH BANK OF MARNE; ADVANCE CONTINUES

More Than 20,000 Prisoners and 400 Guns Have Been Captured—Aviators Play An Important Role.

BULLETIN

LONDON, July 20.—"No Germans remain south of the Marne except prisoners and dead." This message is sent by the Reuter correspondent at French headquarters and is timed Saturday evening.

BULLETIN

BERLIN, July 20.—via London.—While admitting certain gains by the British and also the French, the latter in the Aisne-Marne battle, German headquarters today declares that the enemy thrusts southwest of Soissons in the center of the line and northwest of Chateau Thierry were repulsed.

The German war office says the German troops were withdrawn from the south bank of the Marne river "without being noticed by the enemy."

BULLETIN

LONDON, July 20.—The Germans under heavy pressure, have been forced to withdraw from Rossignol wood, between Hebuterne and Bucquoy and this strategically important position is now in the hands of the British. This announcement was made tonight in the official statement from the war office.

BULLETIN

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE MARNE, July 20.—By the Associated Press.—The American unit since Thursday has taken 2,898 prisoners including 19 officers while another unit on the northern front has captured 2,091 prisoners including 21 officers.

Among the prisoners were a colonel and two majors, all in one group.

The firing on both sides increased after daylight, but the allied guns were much more effective as reports from the aviators and observation balloons on the enemy positions came in. There were numerous bombing raids by the airmen this morning. The northern half of the Soissons-Chateau-Thierry line is now far beyond Vierzy, to the east and there have been bitter struggles in this territory. The allies' big guns command the bridges south-east of Soissons.

PARIS, July 20.—"The Germans, violently attacked on their right flank and south of the Marne," says the war office announcement tonight, "have been compelled to retreat and recross the river. The French hold the entire southern bank of the Marne. More than 20,000 prisoners and more than 400 guns have been captured."

The statement reads: "We have not had to wait for the result of our victorious counter-offensive. The Germans, violently attacked on their right flank and south of the Marne have been compelled to retreat and recross the river."

"We hold the whole bank of the Marne. "Between the Aisne and the Marne Franco-American troops continue to progress and have driven back the enemy who is resisting stubbornly."

"We have reached Ploisy and Parcy-Tigny and have passed beyond St. Remy Blanzay and Rozet-St. Albin."

"Further south we hold the general line of the Prieux plateau, northeast of Courchamp."

"The number of prisoners we have taken since July 18 exceeds 20,000. Over 400 guns have been captured."

"Our aviators, redoubling their activities in the day and night of the 19th multiplied their raids and engaged in the severest battles against enemy forces. Franco-British bombing squadrons, taking the Marne crossings as their principal objectives have ceaselessly hampered, and at certain points completely stopped the enemy supply service, thus playing an important role in the conflict which was about to provoke the retreat of the German troops."

"Attacking with machine guns and bomb concentrations of troops which the enemy was preparing for counter-attacks and his enemy columns of convoys, our aviators inflicted heavy losses on the enemy."

"Between the Marne and Rheims violent combats continue."

"Franco-British troops attacking vigorously encountered large forces. Notwithstanding the enemy's desperate resistance we gained ground in Courton Wood, the Ardre Valley and in the direction of St. Euphrase."

"On the Marne and also at Oulchy-le-Chateau, Fere-en-Tardenois, Fismes and Bazoches and over the whole of the battle field 24 tons of projectiles were dropped during the day and 28 tons at night on enemy assemblages of troops and communications."

"A violent conflagration broke out at Vouziers, and several fires were started at Fere-en-Tardenois, and the station at Fismes. South of this region explosions were observed at the station of Laon. Simultaneously our infantry airplanes indicated an advance of our troops and tanks between the Aisne and the Marne and reported the arrival of enemy reserves and by machine gunning the latter directly participated in the battle."

"Numerous combats were engaged in by our crews in combination with the British airmen and achieved good results. Twenty-six German airplanes were brought down or disabled and four captive balloons were set afire. Everywhere the German aviation service was able to appreciate the dash and superiority of the allied airmen."

Initiative Passing to Allies

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The high water mark of the German offensive movement in France has been reached and the initiative now is passing to the Allied and American Armies. This is the lesson drawn from General Foch's sudden counter-attack on the Aisne-Marne front by American military leaders, General March, chief of staff, told members of the senate military committee today. Later he announced that American troop shipments had now exceeded

SEVENTEEN MEET DEATH IN WRECK NEAR DETROIT

Freight Car and High Speed Passenger Collide Head-On

JACKSON, Mich., July 20.—Seventeen persons were killed and thirty others injured many seriously, when a Detroit-bound limited passenger car and a west-bound freight car collided head-on one mile west of Chelsea at 8:30 o'clock tonight according to information received from that city at mid-night tonight.

Six of the dead were Detroit soldiers enroute to Detroit from Camp Custer.

Several men and women civilians are included among the dead, nearly all of whom lived in Detroit. Unverified reports say that the motorman of both the limited and freight escaped death by leaping from the cars. The collision occurred on a straight stretch of the line and was due, according to unofficial statements to a confusion of signals. The limited is said to have left Jackson seven minutes late and was traveling at high speed.

Both cars were demolished. Several dead and injured are being extricated from the wreckage with difficulty. Nine bodies have been taken to Chelsea undertaking establishments and the less seriously injured have been sent to Detroit and Ann Arbor. The seriously injured are being cared for at Chelsea.

One of the three injured persons taken to Ann Arbor is said to have received fatal injuries, while the two others are reported to be in a serious condition.

Both cars were of wooden construction. The passenger car was telescoped nearly half its length by the freight, most of the dead being killed outright.

A misunderstanding of orders on the part of the crew of the freight car is said to have been responsible for the accident. The passenger train was travelling in two sections the first arriving at Chelsea shortly before eight o'clock. The freight car is said to have had orders to meet the limited at Chelsea but instead of waiting for the second section of the passenger train pulled out, the cars crashing together a few minutes later.

Charles Fiske of Jackson, motorman of the freight and C. D. Taylor, Detroit, motorman of the limited, escaped with slight injuries when they jumped. Taylor would make no statement when seen in Detroit late tonight.

Many of the passengers on the limited car saw the impending crash but the car was crowded and there was little opportunity for escape. Eighty persons are reported to have been on the car.

NEWSPAPERMAN DIES AT MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., July 20.

Charles H. Hamblin, a veteran newspaper man and for many years managing editor and business manager of the Minneapolis Tribune, died here today. He was born 59 years ago, in London, and came to this country when he was 21 years old, and began his newspaper career on the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Times.

A widow and three daughters survive.

ESTABLISHES NEW AMERICAN RECORD

OAKLAND, Cal., July 20.—Miss Olga Dornier, of Philadelphia, holder of the American Women's Swimming records for the 50-yard and 100-yard dash, established a new American record today by swimming 100 yards in 1:06 2-5, in an outdoor tank at Neptune Beach, near here.

The new record clips three fifths of a second from Miss Dornier's former record and is within two fifths of a second of the woman's world-record held by Miss Fannie Durack, of Australia.

MILITARY PREPARATION SHOULD BEGIN NOW

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Pro-rost Marshal General Crowder today issued an appeal to all men of class 1 calling upon them to begin now their preparation as chosen soldiers to defend the country and not wait until they actually have been called into camp.

The men are urged to interest themselves now in soldiering, to learn something of the different branches of the military service, and to fit themselves physically for the rigorous duties of a soldier's life.

SAFELY IN PORT.

Burlington, Ia., July 20.—Howard Wiese, a Burlington boy was a member of the crew of the cruiser San Diego sunk by a submarine yesterday. He wired home his safe arrival in port.

BANK CLEARINGS

New York, July 20.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they held $74,466,620 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $18,144,150 from last week.

War News Summary

News of Activities on Various Battle Fronts in Summarized Form By Associated Press.

Out of the news filtering thru the clouds of battle hanging over the field between the Marne and Soissons there have come two significant reports during the past day. The allies are thundering at the gates of Soissons and the Germans are retreating across the Marne between Fossy and Oeuilly.

German reserves, rushed up to the western side of the Soissons-Chateau Thierry-Rheims salient, have slowed down progress made by the French and Americans but have apparently been unable to do more than check it along the front. The advance made by the allies in the first hours of the great counter stroke has not been maintained but it is evident that hardly anywhere has the allied thrust been stopped.

Reports from the front of battle indicate that the French and Americans have reached the edge of the plateau southwest of Soissons and only a mile and a half from the center of the city. Southward the allies have almost reached the Soissons-Chateau Thierry road, a thoroughfare of great strategic importance. Further toward the Marne they are steadily forging ahead.

Reports of a German retreat across the Marne come as confirmation of the success of the allied drive far to the north. German forces south of the stream must be extricated soon if the German force is to escape from the encircling movement carried out by the French and Americans. French official reports, on state that the Germans are being driven back south of the Marne but it is probable that the German retreatment is a hurried retreat ordered by the German high command. It appears likely that the French are merely maintaining steady pressure against the enemy and hurrying his retreat as much as possible.

From the Marne towards Rheims, too, French and Italians have advanced and it may indicate that the foe is retreating as rapidly as possible. The first of battle is spreading slowly towards Chateau Thierry. There have been reports that the Germans in this region have been removing their heavy guns preparatory to retreating.

Military experts said that if the allied wedge south of Soissons goes much farther it will force a German retreatment at least as far as the Vesle river.

Statements by General March, American chief of staff before the members of the senate military committee indicate there are upwards of 270,000 Americans engaged in the fighting south of Soissons. There are six divisions of Americans here—first, second, third and fourth regiments, twenty-sixth (New England) and the twenty-eighth (Pennsylvania) National Guard.

General March told the newspapermen that the maximum penetration along the line was ten miles, while the average depth of the advance was seven miles. This is further than any advance shown in French official reports and it is possible General March's statements are based on information not yet made public in Paris.

Italian troops in the Adamello region, north of Lake Garda, on the Austro-Italian front have taken two strong points in the mountain region south of where the Italians attacked late in May and broke the Austrian line.

Announce Names American League of U. S. Officers Parks Will Close in Prison Camps After Today

Most of Americans Held No Appeal from Baker's Interpretation of "Work or Fight" Ruling Will Be Made

Washington, July 20.—Names of 125 Americans reported in prison camps by Prussian war ministry were announced today by the war department. Most of them were captured in the fighting at Seicheprey, last April, and some have been reported previously by camps other than those in which they are now located.

The list compiled by the Prussian war ministry was received from the American legation at Berne, Switzerland, having been forwarded by the Spanish embassy at Berlin. Some of the addresses are incomplete and others apparently erroneous. The list is made up mainly of men from the New England states or the far west.

No lawns are listed and only one Illinois man, Lieutenant Hugh Dugan, of Hinsdale, who is imprisoned at Camp Landsbut.

Others whose rank is lieutenant or higher are listed as follows:

Camp Landsbut. John Meredith, lieutenant, Philadelphia. Frederick Westing, Philadelphia.

Camp Villincen. Matthew Buckard, first officer, ship "Beluga," San Francisco. James E. Crawford, lieutenant, Warsaw, N. Y.

R. A. Mackenzie, second lieutenant, Portland, Ore. Edward Moore, chief officer "John Kirby," New York.

Anton Olson, captain ship "Encore," Oakland, Cal. Franklin B. Pedrick, lieutenant, Washington, D. C. Maurice Redmond, lieutenant, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Hilmar Richardson, first officer ship "Encore," Willapa, Wash. Robert D. Trudgett, captain ship "Winslow," Alameda, Cal.

Robert B. McDowell, second lieutenant, Jersey City. Bernard J. Gallagher, lieutenant, Waseka, Minn.

William H. Jenkins, lieutenant, Leesburg, Va. Elmer Mackay, lieutenant, McKeesport, Pa.

Sidney Kinch, Clayville, N. Y. John S. Abbott, lieutenant, St. Paul. Joseph O'Burke, lieutenant, Pittston, Pa.

Camp Giessen. None above rank of sergeant. Camp Parchim. None above rank of sergeant. Camp Munchenberg. No officers listed.

Camp Eutin. Harold Willis, sub-lieutenant, Paris, France. Camp Heuberg has none above sergeant listed.

Camp Hameln. Louis Edena, lieutenant, Cahoon, Missouri. Camp Limberg. Georges Freeland, captain, Westville, Conn. Edward Konne, second lieutenant, Rochester, N. Y.

BRITISH CASUALTIES. London, July 20.—British casualties reported in the week ending today total 16,981, compared with the aggregate of 14,911, reported in the previous week.

LOSS OF LIFE IN SHIP'S SINKING UNDETERMINED

San Diego Now Believed to Have Been Mine Victim

BULLETIN. NEW YORK, July 20.—Between thirty and forty men lost their lives when the United States cruiser San Diego was sunk ten miles off Fire Island yesterday, according to a semi-official estimate made here tonight.

Washington, July 20.—The loss of life in the sinking off Fire Island, N. Y., yesterday, of the United States armored cruiser San Diego and the cause of the ship's destruction still were undetermined tonight, at the navy department. Announcement was made that 1182 men from the ship had been landed. Unofficial reports said there were 1255 men aboard, and if they are correct the loss of life would not exceed 72. The names of those missing were announced today.

Admiral Palmer, acting secretary of the navy, tonight made public a detailed account of the destruction of the cruiser and rescue of the crew, but it added nothing to previous reports from Captain H. H. Christy and other survivors as to the cause of the sinking.

Belief that the San Diego was a victim of a mine, however, grew among naval officials after the commander of the American patrol boats operating off Fire Island reported that his craft had picked up several mines of foreign design.

Among the survivors opinion seemed to be equally divided as to whether a submarine or a mine was responsible for the loss of the cruiser. Many believed that an enemy torpedo struck the warship while as many subscribed to the theory that the vessel hit a mine. No reference to the cause of the explosion, which was heard aboard the cruiser, was contained in the account of the sinking made public tonight by Admiral Palmer.

Admiral Palmer reiterated today his statement that no official evidence had reached the department indicating the presence of a new flotilla of German raiders on the American coasts. Other officials were frank in stating their conviction that at least one German submarine had now or recently been in American zones.

The steamer Malden came into sight and picked up 370 officers and men. The steamer Bismarck reached the scene twenty minutes later and picked up 208 officers and men. The steamship S. P. Jones came up and took aboard 78 men. These three steamers searched the entire vicinity for survivors until 3 p. m. A fourth steamer came up later, but so far as known did not pick up any survivors.

The three steamers took the survivors to New York, where they were taken on board the United States ship, on which every provision had been made for their reception.

Survivors Land at New York. Washington, July 20.—Eleven hundred and eighty-three survivors from the armored cruiser San Diego, sunk yesterday off the coast of Long Island, have been landed at New York. Rear Admiral, acting secretary of the navy, announced tonight.

Most of those who perished are believed to have been members of the engine room crew, who were killed outright or who were so seriously injured in the explosion which wrecked the cruiser that they were unable to save themselves before the ship went down. It has been established also that several of the crew struggling in the water were struck by the smoke stacks of the cruiser when they fell. These men were stunned and drowned before help could reach them.

Others lost their lives when they were caught under the life raft, which was being launched just as the warship turned on its side before going down. The men handling the raft lost control of it and it slid over the side on top of the men in the water.

The survivors from the San Diego were kept all day on the army docks at Hoboken, to be checked by the officers of the ship. An official list of survivors given out tonight contains 1149 names. It will be impossible to determine exactly the loss of life until this list is sent to Washington and compared with the navy department lists. It was believed, however, that the men on board the San Diego numbered nearer 1200 than 1150. Her exact complement was not obtainable here tonight.

Believes Mine Responsible. Norfolk, Va., July 20.—Secretary Daniels said here today that he believed a mine and not a torpedo was responsible for the sinking of the cruiser San Diego. He added that the sinking of the vessel, aside from the loss of life, is of no significance from a military standpoint.

The presence of German submarines on this side of the Atlantic, said Mr. Daniels, "is more or less of a menace, of course, but they will not avail in stopping our transports going overseas."

ALLIES ARTILLERY IN STRIKING DISTANCE OF GERMAN RAILWAYS

Franco-Americans Press Teutons Still Farther Back—Character of Fighting Radically Altered—Crown Prince May Have Difficulty Extricating Army.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON AISNE-MARNE FRONT, July 20.—By the Associated Press.—The French and Americans squeezed the sack in which the Germans appear to be caught somewhat tighter Saturday. At mid-day they had made an average gain of more than a mile along the line Chateau-Thierry-Soissons, while another gain of a similar distance had been made south of the Marne and east of Chateau Thierry.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE AISNE-MARNE FRONT, July 20.—By the Associated Press.—The advance along the Soissons-Chateau Thierry roads has brought the allies' artillery within striking distance of the junction of the railway serving the Germans as a line of communication. The junction already is under fire and unless the desperate attempt which the Germans are making to hold is successful thousands of the Crown Prince's men may be cut off and forced to retreat.

A less powerful effort is being made by the French and Americans eastward of Chateau Thierry, except in front of the positions where the Germans crossed the Marne. The fighting is comparatively light east of Chateau Thierry except at the river, where the most stubborn resistance of the Germans was unable to check the allies who, at one point moved forward half a mile.

Crowd Germans Still Farther Back. With the American Army on the Aisne-Marne Front, July 20.—By the Associated Press.—The French and American troops have crowded the Germans back still farther along the line of Soissons-Chateau Thierry and information from beyond Chateau Thierry indicates the beginning of a movement by the Germans that may develop into an effort by the Crown Prince to extricate his army. The character of the fighting has been radically altered and the Germans have been forced more into the open. The trenches run in such a manner as to leave none into which they can fall back forcing them to depend upon those they have hastily constructed. There has been a marked decrease in German aerial activity and the big guns are less active. The greater part of the German airplanes appear to be used in patrolling their own lines.

Americans Penetrate Lines in Alsace. With the American Army in Alsace, July 20.—By the Associated Press.—A raid undertaken by the Americans last night southwest of Munster resulted in a penetration of the German lines for a distance of from 500 to 600 meters and the capture of five prisoners. The raid was preceded by effective artillery preparation which lasted 45 minutes. The enemy suffered heavy casualties.

BRITISH PLANES BOMB TEUTON AIRSHIP SHEDS. London, July 20.—British seaplanes launched from naval vessels near the coast of Germany have dropped bombs on Teuton airship sheds at Tondern, in Schleswig, destroying two sheds and possibly a third building, the British admiralty announced tonight.

Four machines of the British squadron did not return, three landing in Danish territory. All the British warships returned to their base without any casualties.

In the first flight, which was made in the early morning, all the machines reached their objectives and made direct hits on a large double shed, which was completely destroyed, the conflagration rising a thousand feet. In the second flight all the machines but one reached their objectives. Bombs were dropped on two sheds, one having a large hole blown in it. It was impossible to observe whether the destruction of the second shed was complete. The attacks were made from a height from seven hundred to a thousand feet.

Others lost their lives when they were caught under the life raft, which was being launched just as the warship turned on its side before going down. The men handling the raft lost control of it and it slid over the side on top of the men in the water.

There may be a question as to the pronunciation of General Foch's name, but none regarding his leadership.

Americans do not permit the Hun to take the initiative all the time.

German papers spread the story that Americans might use tomahawks and scalping knives. The scalping knife is more merciful than bombing hospitals and mutilating babes.

The casualty lists may grow when reports come in of battles won. It will bring sadness to the hearts of many, but with it a thrill of pride for the glorious work done and hearts will beat the faster at the thought that their lives were given to save the world from baby-killers.

We have proven that German troops and organization is not invincible, and this achievement may be the beginning of the end.

Saying what he thought cost Von Kuehlman his official position, but he does not now have to apologize for German lies.

THINK OF THESE THINGS.

If you hate sin and evil, then hate Prussianism.

If you love the devil and all his doings, then, and only then, love the enemy of God and mankind, the Germany which has sold its soul to the devil.

Has any man dared to tell you to sink your manhood or womanhood and love the unspeakable Turk—or, as a noted divine once said from his pulpit, moved thereto by the fearful crimes which were then being committed, the "damned Turk."

As you think of the awful atrocities committed during the last four years by the Turks, with German aid in torturing and murdering 1,000,000 Armenian Christians and in sending into the horrors of Turkish harems the fairest of the long-suffering Armenian girls, do you love these brutes?

Would you love them if your own wife or daughter had thus been treated?

Never let yourself think of Germany or of Germans merely as a misguided nation, forced into war.

Think of Germans as super-bends, who for generations have planned world conquest for world looting.

Think of Germans as of people who have gloated over crimes of frightfulness.

Think of Germans as of people who made holidays to celebrate the murdering of women and children on the Lusitania.

Think of Germans who have one supreme aim in life, viz., to enrich their country and themselves by murdering millions of people in order to loot the world.

Think deep down in your soul of this nation of liars, of looters, of rapists, of murderers, of fiends in carnate, and then make your solemn pledge with God and man as your witness, if not fighting on the battle fields of France, you will, to the last ounce of your strength, work and fight at home until the accused power of Germany and her allies has been crushed, their ring leaders shot or hanged, and the heaviest financial penalties imposed upon these nations, that the world may never again be deluged in blood by nations so steeped in barbarism and sin. Anything short of that would be a premium upon murder, a premium upon rape, a premium upon highway robbery and a reflection upon those who have died to save civilization from Germany's barbarism. Manufacturers' Record.

These are the days when even the most unusual happenings fail to arouse much surprise. So it happened that last week when 25 big caterpillar tractors were shipped from Peoria to the east coast by express the news story occupied only a few lines. Before the war began shipment of one tractor by express would have meant big headlines. One can only guess at the express cost for this shipment of 25 tractors intended for overseas use. But then, no matter what the job cost, it was in a good cause and the money returns to the government coffers for the express companies have been nationalized.

Baseball seems to be done for during the period of the war—that is, in a national way. The ruling has been made that professional baseball players must enter the army service or engage in some "useful" occupation. It's a heavy blow to the national game but, after all, it is no more severe than other "blows" which have been dealt and some happy way will be found by the sport loving public to get around the trouble. Doubtless those who have large investments in baseball players and property will also be able to reconspite themselves at some later date. Nearly everybody wishes that the ruling could have been otherwise and that baseball could have been classed as an essential occupation and yet "nearly everybody" looks upon the ruling as just and proper.

This is the national Independence day of Belgium and there will be suitable observance of the anniversary in the allied countries overseas and some cities of the U. S. In France the day will be observed almost as generally as is the French national holiday, with special church services and exercises of a patriotic kind. The bravery of the Belgian people in resisting Germany at the very beginning of the war has often been pointed to as the most sublime bit of bravery that the great war has shown. As the months and years pass and the nations have the picture of King Albert and his army in the retrospect, there is no change in their estimate of that act. The Belgians preferred death with honor rather than to live ignobly.

Dr. William Andrew Montgomery and Miss Ida Helena Rodewald were united in marriage at Newton, Wis., July 13, 1918, according to word received by George W. Scott of the Pacific hotel Saturday.

Dr. Montgomery travels for an eastern drug company and frequently visited this city and made his home at the Pacific hotel. At one time he was here for eighteen weeks due to an accident that incapacitated him for work.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Rodewald and is a young woman greatly admired in a large circle of friends. They will be at home at 1108 South Capitol street, Pekin, Ill., after July 18.

DOES NOT APPROVE TOLLING BELLS.
Editor of the Journal:
Some time since the Mothers' Association arranged for the tolling of the court house bell and other bells when the news of the death of any soldier is received. This is planned as a mark of public respect to the men who give up their lives in the army service. I do not question the patriotic purpose of the members of the association or their sincere desire to have special honors paid to deceased soldiers. But I do question the propriety of the observance.

In coming days it is not unlikely that with a thousand men from Morgan county in various branches of the service, that some messages of death must come, just as they have in the past few months. When the court house bell tolls and gives the information to the public of the death of a soldier, only a few people know the identity of the deceased, and as a certain result apprehension immediately springs up in hundreds of hearts. There are moments, and in many cases a longer period, before the real facts can be known to all the people, and it really seems to me that the tolling of the bell causes more of pain and apprehension than it adds honor to the memory of the soldier dead.

THE SURPRISE PARTY.

Said Kaiser Karl, "My soldiers bold, I know you're mighty hollow; I'm not surprised your feet are cold, since you've no grub to swallow. Our Austria is short of pies, it's stripped of krait and bacon; there's not enough to draw the flies—it's bare and God forsaken. But Italy has food to burn, beyond those Alpine craters! The winerwurst for which you yearn, the prunes and sweet potatoes! You know how Kaiser Wilhelm went and swiped the Russian larder! Go, scale the Alps with fell intent, with glowing zeal and ardor! Italians are an easy mark, they'll all stampede together; get after them, and skies now dark will let in sunny weather." His soldiers took him at his word (the hint could not be broader), their famished hosts began to grumble and started out for fodder. They thought to find a Russia there, disorganized and rattled, and they would strip the cupboard bare when for a day they'd battled. But Italy was on her toes, with lust for fight aqiver; she climbed all up and down the foes, and chased them in the river. Survivors of the hosts of Karl toll home, too sick to utter, to scrape again the empty bar! and hunt bones in the gutter.

MATRIMONIAL

Frick-Finlayson.
A Des Moines paper gives in a recent issue a notice of the marriage of Miss Ruth Finlayson to Horace A. Frick of Madrid, Iowa.

Mrs. Finlayson, mother of the bride, was Miss Helen Stout prior to her marriage and the family formerly resided here. Mrs. E. G. Caldwell received a copy of the paper and is one of the Morgans, county relatives of the bride. The paper mentioned had the following paragraphs:

"The marriage of Miss Ruth Finlayson to Mr. Forrest A. Frick of Madrid took place Monday at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Finlayson, 1327 Madison.

The service was read by the Rev. F. C. McKean and witnessed by the immediate relatives. The bride wore a simple summer frock of white organdie and voile.

"The young couple left for a short motor trip and will be at home at their country place near Madrid, where the groom has a large farm. Mr. Frick formerly lived at Sheldahl, where Mrs. Frick has spent the past year in charge of the high school domestic science department. She was graduated from North High and Drake university, where she is a member of the Omega Delta sorority. The wedding, of which no previous announcement has been made, comes as a surprise to many friends."

Montgomery-Rodewald.
Dr. William Andrew Montgomery and Miss Ida Helena Rodewald were united in marriage at Newton, Wis., July 13, 1918, according to word received by George W. Scott of the Pacific hotel Saturday.

Dr. Montgomery travels for an eastern drug company and frequently visited this city and made his home at the Pacific hotel. At one time he was here for eighteen weeks due to an accident that incapacitated him for work.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolf Rodewald and is a young woman greatly admired in a large circle of friends. They will be at home at 1108 South Capitol street, Pekin, Ill., after July 18.

BLIND BOY SUCCEEDS AS PHONE OPERATOR

Carl Wiley Now Fills Position of Night Telephone Operator at Jacksonville State Hospital—Devised System by Which He Could Carry on the Work.

Carl Wiley who lives at 716 South Main has assumed the work of night telephone operator at Jacksonville State Hospital. The fact that Mr. Wiley is totally blind makes this appear to the public as an almost impossible thing. But he answers all calls with an emergency and makes his report to Superintendent Hill without the assistance of any other person. Not only does he handle the local calls but takes care of the long distance ones, and receives and sends necessary telegrams, during his working hours which are from ten at night until six in the morning.

Handles Many Calls Nightly.
The fact that there are over 2000 calls coming in each night from the forty wards in the building, with each attendant registering every fifteen minutes means that a very accurate system must be used to record the reports. Should any one of the attendants fail to report on time an investigation is made to ascertain the reason for all of which Mr. Wiley is responsible.

Early last February Dr. Hill gave Mr. Wiley the privilege of working out a system by which he could carry on the work of the telephone board. From February 5th until March 10th he worked out the idea of equipping the board with the braille numbers and a system of checking each attendant's report as they called in. Then from that time until March the 27th the blind man worked at the board with an assistant to make sure he made no mistakes and that he received all calls correctly, after which he took full charge of the board and has since been running it without assistance.

The System Adopted.
On each drop of the switch board Mr. Wiley has soldered a brass plate with the number of that drop in the braille, and to correspond with the holes where the connection plugs are inserted he has also placed a strip of brass with the corresponding number. To avoid knocking down other drops as he feels for the one which has just fallen he has devised a guard of wire. At the same time that he answers a report of one of the attendants he lifts a small spring catch or pushes it down according to the time of the report, whether it be on the quarter or half hour time, and then by running his hands over the springs he is able to immediately tell whether all have reported and if they have not, who it is that has not reported.

Is Capable Typist.
When Wiley has completed his shift of duty his report must be made to the office and to do this he has a typewriter which he uses with as much speed and accuracy as any seeing stenographer. At the direction of superintendent Hill it is planned to install a similar switch board in other state institutions by which more of the blind students of the State schools may be given employment. If these plans are carried out Mr. Wiley will be given charge of installing such boards.

Many Plans in Prospect.
Supt. Woolston of the School for the Blind and Dr. Hill of the State Hospital have been very active in advocating means of employment for the blind and this is only one of the many plans that they hope to carry out.

Mr. Wiley graduated from the School for the Blind May 22, 1917 with a class of five boys. Of these graduates all have very good paying employment at the present time. Such results as these are great incentives for the children of the school to complete their education there, and it also shows the interest taken by prominent men in their welfare.

"Stella Maris"

The photoplay is dramatized from the famous novel by William J. Locke, who is recognized as one of the greatest living authors. Mary Pickford, the idol of America, is the star.

For the first time in her career Miss Pickford undertakes a dual role, playing the part of Stella Maris, a sweet, gentle girl, and Unity Blake, the ugly and deformed orphan. In the latter role scenes of great pathos and sensationalism are shown.

Through remarkable trick photography, both characters are shown on the screen at the same time, and effects are obtained which have never heretofore been successfully attempted.

The supporting cast is exceptionally strong, headed by Conway Tearle, a popular favorite.

FAMOUS WOMAN'S CENTENARY OBSERVED

Maria Mitchell Had World Wide Renown as Astronomer.

New York, July 17.—Women's organizations and scientific and educational societies throughout the land are preparing soon to honor the memory of Marie Mitchell, who attained world-wide fame as an astronomer. The occasion will be the centennial anniversary of her birth, which occurred in the Island of Nantucket Aug. 1, 1818.

Away back in the twenties of the last century Marie Mitchell, a bright eyed little lassie used to climb on the roof of the family home just before "sand man" came every summer evening to watch the stars. Long before she was ten years old the little maid knew the heavens and the relative locations of the stars as well as she knew the streets of her native town. Her father, William Mitchell, for years a master in the island schools, was delighted with the bent of his small daughter's mind, and he encouraged her. He himself was interested in scientific research, and he taught her to count the seconds by the chronometer while he studied the stars. She learned this so rapidly that later when he was employed to "rate" the chronometers of the Nantucket whaling fleet, Maria was his valuable assistant.

In 1831, during the total eclipse of the sun, Mr. Mitchell moved the sash of a parlor window of the home to make an observation, and while he performed this task his 12 year old daughter counted the seconds for him.

Showered Early Ability.

As she grew up Marie Mitchell devoted her attention to astronomy, mastering it with the ease of a born scientist. For twenty years a little closet, three feet by four, located in the family home, served as her study. Here she did her work until she was made professor of astronomy and director of the observatory upon the founding of Vassar College, in 1863. She held that position until 1888, when failing health necessitated her retirement, and she was made professor emerita.

It was before she became identified with Vassar that Marie Mitchell made the discovery which caused her name to be famous the world over, and which won her the King of Denmark's gold medal for the first telescopic discovery of a comet.

Another honor came to Marie Mitchell when, in 1859 she was given a bronze medal by the republic of San Marino.

During her years of work and study Marie Mitchell gave to the world of science much that is prized today. She was the first woman to be elected to membership in the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and early in her career she was made a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

In 1869 she was invited to join the American Philosophical Society founded by Benjamin Franklin in Philadelphia. Columbia, Dartmouth, Rutgers and other universities honored her with degrees. Her name is one of the two women's names on the memorial window in the Boston public library.

A Remarkable Monument.

A remarkable monument at Nantucket does honor to the famous woman astronomer. It is in the form of an astronomical observatory in which there is a five inch telescope. The telescope was presented to Miss Mitchell on behalf of the women of America thru Elizabeth Peabody the noted American educator. The funds for building the observatory were entirely contributed by women.

No change has been made in the house where Miss Mitchell was born. Preserved there are valuable scientific and literary collection, together with manuscripts of her lectures and the notes she took, together with autographs, letters, diplomas, and many of her personal treasures and belongings.

During her scientific career Miss Mitchell crossed the Atlantic twice for the purpose of visiting European observatories. She was received and entertained at the observatories in Liverpool, Greenwich, Cambridge, Glasgow, Paris, Rome and Pulkova. In her diary she said of these visits, "I tried to see in what way they are superior to us, not in what way they are inferior."

FOOD VIOLATORS BEING HAULED UP

U. S. Food Administration Investigators Active in Various Parts of State.

Over 2,000 wholesale and retail grocers, owners of public eating places, bakers, and milk and ice distributors have appeared before the Bureau of Enforcement and Investigation of the Illinois Division of the United States Food Administration during the last sixty days.

A resume report is being forwarded to Washington indicating over $10,000 in contributions received for the American Red Cross from infractors who disciplined themselves for selling flour in excessive quantities or without the proper amount of substitutes; sold too much sugar; served more bread than they should with meals; exceeded their flour allotment or overcharged for licensed commodities.

The Bureau of Investigation and Enforcement was created on April 2nd and the organization is now completed. Trained men of wide business and judicial experience have been secured as volunteer members of the executive staff. These men are assigned in groups specializing in hearings on various kinds of activities.

Owing to the critical situation in flour and sugar, six members of the staff have been constantly engaged on each of these two commodities.

A large portion of the contributions received were where the 50-50 plan was violated. Special investigators are now working on distribution margins of mills and wholesalers. A number of licensees have been cited to appear where excess profits in handling licensed commodities have been discovered.

A staff of over 75 volunteer bakers has been organized to investigate alleged bakery violations. The public eating places have selected a committee representative of every kind of eating place and pledged to co-operate with the regulations. This committee have raised a fund of $10,000 to assist in such investigations.

Most of those appearing before the Bureau during the last sixty days of the regulations, and so a Bureau of Publicity has been installed.

All dealers in foodstuffs, however, are supposed to acquaint themselves with all regulations and ignorance is not considered an excuse. There is a food administrator now in practically every township of the State and an administrator in charge of each county. Those not acquainted with the regulations need only to apply to these governmental representatives who will familiarize them in all details.

OPPORTUNITIES OF SERVICE FOR WOMEN

Women Will Have Great Chance to Serve Country Thru Sunday School Leadership.

Women of this city and county have a larger opportunity than ever to serve their country thru Sunday school leadership, in the opinion of Clarence L. DePew, who has just returned from a conference of ten days at Conference Point, Williams Bay, Wis.

Mr. DePew was a student at the training school for Sunday school leaders conducted by the International Sunday School Association on the shores of Lake Geneva every summer. In spite of the war and increased railway fare, the attendance was practically as large as last year, nearly 300. War has taken many men from state and county Sunday school positions and women must be found to take their places.

According to the local delegate there are enlarging opportunities to lead the various divisions of Sunday school work and it is hoped that next year others from this vicinity will be at the training school.

This school is said by those in charge to be the only institution of the sort in the world, and although it has been in operation only seven years it has had, in the opinion of local experts, a large influence on the advance and efficiency of Bible teaching. The students came from all parts of the country, including Canada and Cuba. The faculty comprised forty men and women known widely as experts in the various lines they taught. The school, the ground for which has recently been enlarged, is in charge of W. C. Pearce of the International Sunday School Association. Marion Lawrence, general secretary of the association, was on the program.

Plans were discussed whereby children in any community may be given regular religious instruction during week days in buildings other than school buildings. The holding of community classes for the training of Bible teachers was also stressed.

Social Events

Gave Supper at Park.

Mrs. J. W. Grimes entertained a company of fifteen friends at Nichols park Friday evening in honor of Mrs. George S. Skeen of Texas, and Mrs. Fell of Kansas City. A chicken supper supplemented with lots of other good things, was enjoyed and the evening was spent in a pleasant social manner.

Gave Farewell Party.

Miss Margaret Burkery was hostess at a farewell party Friday evening at her home, 624 North East street, in honor of Miss Bessie Cruse who expects to leave today for Peoria where she will make her future home. The evening proved a most pleasant one, with music and dancing. At a late hour delicious refreshments, were served. Among those present were: Katherine O'Brien, Minerva Wharton, Grace Hamilton, Gladys Hamilton, Hazel Rustemeyer, Ethel Hedrick, Ruth Hedrick, Nellie Burnett, Mayme Hayden, Etta Hennessey, Bessie Cruse, and Margaret Burkery.

Mr. Hadden planted Turkey Red hard wheat and believes that one year after another, this type of wheat gets the best results.

E. T. Sample, of Pisgah, was among the city visitors yesterday.

Lieut. Roosevelt's Death Confirmed By German Note

Enemy Flyer Drops Message Behind American Lines—Major Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Wounded

PARIS, July 20. — German aviators have dropped a note into American aviation camps confirming the death of Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt.

Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt, whose death while flying as an aviator in the American service is confirmed from German sources, was the youngest son of the former president. He disappeared last Sunday morning during a combat between American and German machines ten miles inside the enemy lines in the Chateau Thierry sector.

Two machines attacked Lieutenant Roosevelt and one of the machines was seen to tumble to the ground. Search for him after the battle revealed no traces and it was evident that Lieutenant Roosevelt's machine had gone down. One report was that the plane caught fire while another account said that it was not in flames when it was seen to fall.

Lack of official confirmation of the lieutenant's death prompted some hope that he might have been made a prisoner. A cablegram received by Colonel Roosevelt Friday from relatives in Paris said that Quentin's plane dived 800 metres and was seen to strike the ground. It was not in flames. The message said that a chance existed that the lieutenant was a prisoner.

Lieutenant Roosevelt's death is the third casualty in the Roosevelt family. Captain Archibald Roosevelt was wounded severely on March 11, and has not yet returned to active duty. The captain won the French war cross

FRENCH HOLD ENTIRE SOUTH BANK OF MARNE; ADVANCE CONTINUES

Even as General March spoke, unofficial cable reports indicated that the German withdrawal from the sector south of the Marne had begun under threat of the onrush of General Mangin's attacking army in the enemy's rear.

The American chief of staff told that six American divisions are battling with the French and for the first time revealed their identity. They either are on the advancing lines between Soissons and Chateau Thierry or on those that are pressing the enemy along the Marne front where there is reason to believe the Germans may suffer serious losses in men and material before they reach safety. Still another division of Americans is with General Gouraud, the French leader who commands east of Rheims, where the enemy assault hit against a stone wall defense.

FIRE IN BOILER HOUSE AT I. W. C.

Started Probably from Spontaneous Combustion—Loss Will be About $500 Fully Covered by Insurance.

Fire which started at 2:15 o'clock damaged the boiler house and laundry of Illinois Woman's college to the extent of probably $500. The loss is fully covered by insurance.

The fire started in the boiler room and is thought to have been caused by spontaneous combustion as there was a large quantity of screenings stored there.

The fire was discovered and the alarm first turned in by R. E. Harmon, who resides at 516 East College avenue. The alarm also was turned in from Our Savior's hospital.

The flames had gained considerable headway before discovered. However, the department made a quick response and soon had the blaze under control. There was a large crowd present shortly after the alarm was turned in and the department received able assistance from a large number of volunteers.

The building was erected in 1904. Dr. Harker said last night that immediate steps would be taken to rebuild the structure.

SCOTT COUNTY BOYS ENLIST IN NAVY

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

It proves that the instrument does Re-Create, not merely imitate. Hundreds of these tone tests have been conducted. More than 2,000,000 people have attended them. And not one could say when it was the artist he heard and when the instrument. With the lights lowered to hide the singer's lips the audience was completely baffled.

Brady Bros.

On receiving confirmation of Quentin's death, Colonel and Mrs. Roosevelt with their daughters, Mrs. Richard Derby and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, announced that they would receive no visitors. The colonel, however, made an exception in the case of the Japanese Red Cross commissioner, who, accompanied by H. P. Davison, chairman of the war council of the American Red Cross came to Oyster Bay to pay their respects to the former president.

When, with a host of other telegrams there arrived one of condolence from President Wilson the colonel sent the following reply to the white house:

"Thank you for your courtesy and kindness in telegraphing me, and I deeply appreciate your expression of sympathy and of approval of my son's conduct."

It was announced that for several days the colonel would refuse to discuss the political situation in New York state because of his grief over the death of his son. It was also said he would receive no political leaders.

NEGRO QUOTAS FOR ILLINOIS ANNOUNCED

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 20.—Quotas of negro selected men to fill the call of the provost marshal general to entrain from Illinois boards for Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., and Camp Dodge, Des Moines, Ia., August 1 to 6, are announced as follows:

Camp Grant: Aurora City, 19; Champaign county Board No. 1, one man; board 2, 26; Decatur city 10; Danville, 57; Jo Daviess, 4; Kankakee county, 18; City of Joliet, 12; Kane county Board 2, 3; Lee county 5; Macon county 2; Morgan county 59; Peoria city Board No. 1, 34; Board 2, 18; Peoria county, 1; Pulaski county, 11; Rockford Board 1, 10; board 2, 5; Rock Island county Board 1, 23; board 2, 2; St. Clair county board 1, 30; board 2, 116; Stephenson county 12; Whiteside county 4; Will county board 1, 16; board 2, 2; Winnebago county, 18.

Camp Dodge: Alexander county, 316; Jackson county, 65; Jefferson, 11; McLean county board 1, 3; board 2, 22; Madison county board 1, 12; board 2, 91; board 3, 63; Vermilion county, board 1, 3; board 2, 5; East St. Louis board 1, 359; board 2, 76; board 3, 190; Quincy, 55.

The total to be entrained for both camps is 5,409.

ANNOUNCE FILINGS OF PRIMARY PETITIONS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 20.—Filings of primary petitions were announced by the secretary of state today as follows:

Representative in congress, twenty second district, J. Nick Perrin, Belleville, Democratic. State Central Committee, Ill., tenth district, James P. Overholser, Sterling, Republican.

Representative in the general assembly, twelfth district, James A. Graham, Cedarville, Democrat, and eighteenth district, James E. McLoughlin, Peoria, Democrat.

General March made little effort to conceal his elation over the turn of the fighting. His explanation of the disposition of the American forces indicates that at least 196,000 American fighting troops are in the battle and probably the total force is nearer 300,000 than 200,000.

Each division has a fighting strength of 3,600. The full strength of each division with auxiliary units is 45,000 men.

"One question asked me has been," said General March today in his key talk, "is will you be good enough to tell us where the Illinois National Guard which trained at Fort Logan H. Roots is situated in France. The division is commanded by General George Bell, Jr., and is in the English training sector. A unit from that division took part in the fighting which was reported last week where the Austrians made an advance accompanied by American troops so that the training has progressed where they can actually take part in the fighting."

In answer to other questions, General March said:

"Our reports do not include that Soissons has fallen. It is, of course, under artillery fire. Our troops have come up to a point where they are close to it, the town must be heavily bombarded but it is perfectly evident that the Germans have thrown into the defense of that line a large number of reserves which did not accompany them during the original attack along the Marne."

"American divisions which are on the front of the large offensive are the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 26th, and 28th divisions. The colored regiments belong to the 93rd division."

"We have nothing to indicate how costly our casualty lists are. Reports on casualties have come in and we do not know yet what it will cost us."

Capture Monte Stabel

Rome, July 20.—Italian troops have wrested from the Austrians Monte Stabel and have completely reoccupied Corno di Cavento, in the Adamello region of the mountain front according to the official statement issued from general headquarters today. The text of the communication reads:

"In the region of Adamello our detachments with great gallantry wrested from the enemy Monte Stabel and have completely occupied Corno di Cavento on the front of the large offensive are the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 26th, and 28th divisions. The colored regiments belong to the 93rd division."

"We have nothing to indicate how costly our casualty lists are. Reports on casualties have come in and we do not know yet what it will cost us."

ST. LOUIS, July 20.—More than 500,000 soldiers in the Austrian army are awaiting the first chance to desert so they can aid the United States, according to Lieutenant Anthony Holy who escaped from the Austrian army with 20,000 countrymen and him came here to organize a Czecho-Slovak recruiting mission for the French government.

Lieutenant Holy said, he, like many other Bohemians, was drafted into the Austrian army at the outbreak of the war and allowed Russians to capture them.

CANTON, O., July 20.—Thomas E. Davis, of Canton listed by the navy department as among the known killed on the cruised San Diego is safe at Penscola, Fla., a message from him to relatives tonight revealed. His brother here declared similarity of names probably caused the error.

AMSTERDAM, July 20.—A semi-official statement received here from Berlin says German supreme army command had several aims in its attack on the southern bank of the Marne, the crossing of which river, it asserts was unobscured by the entente allies. The statement goes so far as to claim that the German objectives have been fully attained.

SEATTLE, Wn., July 20.—Director-General McAdoo of the Government administration will announce his decision on the result of the board of railway wages and working conditions regarding the wages of the mechanical crafts July 25 according to an announcement authorized by him here today.

LONDON, July 20.—Herbert C. Hoover, the American Food Administrator who arrived in England yesterday gave the British food officials an example of his energy today. He took over an untenanted house near the American embassy at 9 o'clock this morning and by 11 o'clock had installed furniture and equipment and a staff of six stenographers and fourteen messenger boys with arrangements for others to work in relays day and night thruout Saturday and Sunday.

AMSTERDAM, July 20.—Moscow newspapers report the capture of the town of Birk by Czecho-Slovak forces, according to a telegram received here by way of Berne. The soviet troops were reported in retreat.

CLEVELAND, O., July 20.—The Boston National League Baseball Club in common pleas court today filed an answer to the suit of the Philadelphia American League club involving the title to Pitcher Scott Perry now playing with Philadelphia.

The answer filed today denies that the ruling of the national commission in giving title to Perry to the Boston club was arbitrary and alleges that the commission's ruling is binding.

AMSTERDAM, July 20.—A Berlin telegram says the Rhine-Westfalia Zeitung of Essen says that the Moscow government while refusing the request of the German government that it be allowed to send a German battalion to protect the German embassy has agreed to the employment of several hundred soldiers in civilian dress.

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill., July 20.—That the lynching of Robert Paul Prager, alleged German spy April 5, last, will be made a matter of representation by the German government was indicated in a letter received by John Mellon, clerk of the circuit court requesting accurate information regarding the lynching. The letter was made public tonight and was signed by Henry Nussel, Swiss consul at Chicago in charge of German interests.

SUFFRAGE MOVEMENT HAS BIRTHDAY

Seventieth Anniversary of Organized Effort to Secure Vote Rights for Women.

New York, July 15.—Seventy years ago today, at a convention held in the town of Seneca Falls, N. Y., there was launched the first organized movement to secure the right to vote. When this convention was held, in 1848, a woman had no franchise privileges in this country except a very slight school suffrage in Kentucky. At the present time they have complete voting rights in a large number of the States, with the excellent prospects that these rights may be made nationwide at no very distant date.

It is significant at the present time when women suffrage is a familiar household phrase, to realize the effect produced upon the public seventy years ago by the circulation of the following notice:

"Women's Rights Convention." "A convention to discuss the social, civil and religious condition and rights of women will be held in the Wesleyan Chapel, Seneca, N. Y., the 19th and 20th of July, current, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m. During the first day the meeting will be exclusively for women, who are earnestly invited to attend. The public generally are invited to attend on the second day, when Lucretia Mott, of Philadelphia and other ladies and gentlemen, will address the convention."

When the eventful day arrived the church was filled with people, curious and eager to know what the meeting was for. The declaration of principles and resolutions was discussed, the latter adopted and the former signed by 100 men and women. There was much interest in the convention that it adjourned to meet in Rochester in August of the same year.

At the Rochester convention the hall was crowded and according to the accounts many fine addresses were made by men and women. Among the signers of the declaration were Susan B. Anthony's father and mother, but she herself was teaching in the academy at Canajoharie, N. Y., and she knew nothing of these meetings. The declaration stated the whole case for woman as comprehensively as it has ever been stated since; the resolution comprised practically every demand that ever afterward was made for woman, and taken together they formed a remarkable document.

Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton met for the first time in 1851, and immediately afterward organized work for women suffrage began to take shape in New York. In the following year, 1852, the suffrage agitation having increased to a surprising extent, a convention was arranged to take place in Syracuse, and the delegates present were from eight States and Canada.

This convention brought to the front the wonderful galaxy of women whose names were henceforth connected with the movement and inaugurated Susan B. Anthony's 54 years' leadership. From that time until the present with the interim of the Civil War the work has actively continued.

From America the equal suffrage movement has extended to many parts of the world. Since the commencement of the present war Great Britain has deemed it advisable to enfranchise a large proportion of her women. In the Scandinavian countries and in the Netherlands women possess ballot rights and the privilege of election to parliament. In Australia, in Ireland, in Burma, in certain districts of India and in many other lands the women today have municipal and other limited suffrage. One of the first acts of the new republic of China was to grant the suffrage to women on the same terms as men.

But it is in the United States, however, that the movement has achieved its greatest victories. Fully one half of the women voters of the world are within the boundaries of this country. At the present time women have complete voting rights in a dozen States and presidential or other partial suffrage in a score of other States.

BRITISH SOLDIERS' WAR SONGS HUMOROUS

In Striking Contrast to Songs of German Army—Briton Has Great Weakness for Sentimental Love Songs, But no Illusions as to Glories of Modern Warfare.

Behind the British Lines in France, July.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—A striking feature of the British soldier's war songs is their humor. Even the British find it difficult to understand how it is that the Tommy apparently looks upon as mere comedy what is in reality the greatest tragedy in the history of the world. The truth is that the British private has discovered a new philosophy appropriate to modern war,—he has discovered that it is too serious a business to be taken seriously. Humor and flippancy is the only antidote to its unutterable ghastliness.

In all the British soldier's songs, the contrast to the songs of the German army is most striking. Here is one which might well be called the British soldier's Hymn of Hate:

"The bells of Hell go ting-a-ling-a-ling.

For you and not for me.

For me the angels sing-a-ling-a-ling.

They've got the goods for me.

O death, where is thy sting-a-ling-a-ling.

Where grave thy victoree.

The bells of Hell go ting-a-ling-a-ling.

For you and not for me."

That is the nearest he has ever approached to an expression in song of his religious faith.

There is one song in particular which might well be called the Song of the British Army. Every soldier at the front can sing it. It is to be heard in every trench dug-out and billet in France. The words are not seen and the music cannot be commended for martial grandeur or delicate harmonies, but it is Tommy Atkins' masterpiece. It is almost a dirge or lament, colored with just that touch of elusive Cockney humor which shows that it is not to be taken seriously. These are the words:

"I want to go 'ome,

I want to go 'ome.

The shells and the whizzbangs they rush and they roar,

I don't want to go to the trenches no more.

I want to go over the sea,

Where the Allemands cannot catch me.

Oh, my,

I want to go 'ome."

One can imagine a German overhearing this song and drawing certain inferences as to the singer's morale. But the British soldier will utterly confound those inferences every time.

He has a great weakness for sentimental love songs which remind him of home and of associations that lift him out of the sombre surroundings of his camp or billet.

Tommy Atkins has all the intense reserve of the Briton. To sing about fighting for freedom against the enemies of right, for the sake of the flag, and all the rest of it, strikes him as indecent. Such things make him blush—they are not mentioned in polite military society. The more flamboyant type of patriotic songs, which proclaim with gusto that a soldier's life is the only life for me and so forth, he frankly ridicules.

He has no illusions as to the glories of modern warfare. One of his favorite songs begins: "When this bloody war is over, O how happy I shall be."

ITALY TO USE U. S. SUBMARINE CHASERS

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Italy is to use the American submarine chasers, the "Eagle boats" in its campaign of attrition against the Austrian fleet in the Adriatic sea. Announcement was made today that the Italian government has completed negotiations for taking over from the navy department a contract for twelve of the vessels to be built by the Ford Manufacturing Company of Detroit and Italian officers said they regarded this as only the forerunner of orders for a large number of the craft. The "Eagle" boats have been described as "a cross between" the American torpedo boat destroyer and submarine chaser and are about 200 feet long, built of steel and of fast speed.

WANT TO INCREASE RATES.

Washington, July 19.—Permission to increase from 2 to 2.6 cents per mile its ticket fares and to increase to 3 cents per mile its cash fare between points in Illinois and Wisconsin was asked of the Interstate Commerce Commission today by the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad.

STEAMSHIP SUNK.

An Atlantic Port, July 19.—The Anchor Line steamship Elysia 6,297 tons gross, was sunk by a German submarine May 3 in the Mediterranean while carrying cargo from the Far East. It was reported here today by a passenger arriving on a British steamship. The Elysia was one of a convoy of 22 vessels. The crew was saved.

NE WORK BY COAST SURVEY NOW POSSIBLE

Sundry Bill Recently Passed Makes Possible Important Development in Work of Coast and Geodetic Survey—Authority to Be Utilized Without Delay.

Washington, July 17.—Important new work by the Coast and Geodetic Survey has been made possible by enabling legislation contained in the Sundry Civil Bill just passed. Secretary Redfield announced today that the authority granted will be utilized without delay for the collection of data on tides and currents and surveys in Alaskan waters, which will be of great value to commerce.

Authorization was given in the bill for the payment of not to exceed one dollar per day extra compensation to employees of the different stations of the Lighthouse Service while observing tides or currents. Lightships are peculiarly well situated in positions where it is desirable to collect tide and current data, but such observations are not part of the duty of the Bureau of Lighthouses and in the past could not justly be imposed on the lightkeepers of that bureau without some additional compensation, and the appropriations for the Coast and Geodetic Survey could not be expended to compensate them for such additional duties without this authorization. From the results of data collected by lightships it is expected that predictions can be made which will be of direct benefit to navigators and go far toward saving many vessels from loss thru inadequate knowledge of the direction and strength of the ocean currents.

The bill also authorizes the bureau to purchase supplies or procure services in the open market in the manner common among business men where the amount of the purchase does not exceed $50. Instances are numerous in the past where the necessity of securing competitive bids for small items have materially delayed the progress of field work and such required procedure has actually cost the government more than the value of the article purchased.

Other items of enabling legislation are the authorization of the running of lines of precise levels in the interior of Alaska; the employment of draftsmen in the preparation of plans and specifications for vessels; the reimbursement under rules prescribed by the Secretary of Commerce of officers of the bureau for food, clothing, medicines, and other supplies furnished for the temporary relief of distressed persons in remote localities and to shipwrecked persons temporarily provided for by them.

Three important items of additional appropriation for the bureau are contained in the bill. One is an appropriation of $500,000 for a new vessel to cost not exceeding $354,000. Another is the appropriation of $50,000 for a new motor-driven vessel, including equipment, to replace the Taku condemned as unseaworthy and sold. The third is for four new launches, including their equipment $82,500. The two new vessels are for much-needed surveys of the waters of Alaska, and the launches are for use in wire-drag surveys.

GERMANY SEEKS TO CONTROL BELGIAN PRESS. Havre, July.—The Germans not only have tried every imaginable method of controlling and subjugating the Belgian press, such as requisitioning all paper supplies from newspapers that would not do their bidding, but have now requisitioned the presses, linotypes and machinery of Le Patriote. The property thus seized, the Belgian authorities learn, has been sold to German papers.

"With the Colors"

Letters of Interest from Jacksonville Boys in the Country's Service.

Letter From Harold Gaines
Harold V. Gaines, who is a machinist in the aviation repair depot at Dallas, Texas, writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Gaines of this city, of his life in the aero squadron. Mr. Gaines has only been in the service about a month but writes he likes the life immensely. He recently had his first "joy ride" in the air and gives the following description of his experience. Young Gaines is not of the flying squadron but a mechanic in the big flying depot of Dallas. His letter to his parents relative to his trip among the clouds follows:

"I had my first ride in one of the big ships and will try and explain how it felt.
Last Wednesday Major Netherwood said he would take me up for helping finish his Packard twelve that was in the garage. Well, I went over to the hangar about seven o'clock and we got out his 220 horse power Curtis machine gun ship and he told me to get in. I took the machine gun seat. I was strapped in and given a helmet which looks something like a foot ball head gear, and also, a pair of goggles. Well, he raised his hand up in the air, meaning to clear out, that we were off. We ran about 80 rods on the ground. I was not a bit nervous until she got up about 250 feet. Then the air made her wobble like an auto in a rough road. I could see every thing for miles on the ground but we kept getting higher, so I decided not to look down.

When you turn your head sideways it takes quite an effort to straighten around on account of the wind and the propeller, as you are going about 100 miles per hour. We got up about 4,000 feet when all of a sudden it got cold as in winter time. It didn't seem possible because it was over a hundred down to the ground. Then all of a sudden it got real foggy and wet. You sure experience a lot of funny things up in the air.
I had been up about 20 minutes by my watch and I had began to get used to it so I looked down.

We were up 48 minutes and the highest was 5,800 feet and our best speed was 97 miles per hour. You see I had some ride but I went to the hospital the next day and I could hear the roar of the engine for two days after the ride. I have been laid up in the hospital. I had got out fast Thursday. I had a reaction of my typhoid inoculation and also of my vaccination. With lots of love,
Your Sonnie,

Hal Vic Gaines,
877 Aero Squadron,
Aviation Repair Depot,
Dallas, Texas.

J. A. Fernandes of 908 Allen avenue has received the following interesting letter from his son Hugh, who is stationed at Portsmouth, Va.

Portsmouth, Va.
July 15, 1918.

Dear Papa:
I received your letter when I was home in Manchester on my furlough and was glad to hear from you.

I got back here the 11th of July. I hated to leave and I hated to have me leave too. I had to. I read the 23rd Psalm to Jennie, when we read your letter, and it was a happy thing. Friday night they had services here, and the minister read the 23rd Psalm to us boys in camp and took it for his subject. He said if all the boys would learn the Psalm, "if they didn't already know it," that it would be a great deal of help to them.

Well there isn't much news to tell you only that we are anxious to get the Kaiser, and with the help of our Maker, we will get him, if the Germans don't get us, and I pray that they won't.

I'm glad that sister Lula is so good to you.
Give all my best love that asks for me. Good bye, Dear Papa. Write when you can, as all of us boys are always anxious to hear from home. Pray for the boys at war, I know you do.

From your ever loving son,
Hugh Fernandes,
U. S. Naval Ammunition Depot,
Portsmouth, Va.

The following letter has been received by Mrs. G. A. Paugust from her brother, Carl Ahlquist, who is with the colors:

El Paso, Tex., July 15, 1918.

Dear Sister:
It has been so long since I wrote a letter that I have almost forgotten how, but will let you know that I am back in camp again safe, and I received your letter while up in the mountains; also the papers, which were both a God-send up there.

We arrived in camp last Friday, making our trip last over five weeks, and believe me I am certainly glad to settle down again after the hike. Just about wore out all my clothes, and it is pretty hard to get any now as we are only allowed so much at a time. The riding is pretty hard on them.

You were asking in your letter for some post card pictures but I think you will have to wait until I am better fixed before I can get any.

We left here on the morning of the fourth of June and I received the money from home just a few days before we left, using about five dollars for things that I would need, and our first night out the other fifteen was either stolen or I lost it. We usually sleep with our clothes on, but our first few days before we reached the mountains it was so warm that I took them off and used them for a pillow and in the morning they were gone. I am glad to say that they did not send all I asked for.

I might have written to you on the hike, but it is bad enough without trying to write letters. You see we don't get into camp until about one or two o'clock and by the time we take care of our horses and the rest of the camp routine, we are ready to snatch a little sleep. We always break camp about five in the mornings. Our mail followed us on the hike this time, and I received your letter on the twenty-ninth of June, just about eight days from the time you wrote it.

Our trip was better going than coming back this time, as we had a few rains on the way up. Our first stop was at Breno, New Mexico, about twenty miles north of here, just a small place, more Mexicans than whites, and the land is all irrigated by ditches from the Rio Grande. Our next stop was at Las Cruces, New Mexico, about twenty miles farther north, a much larger place. I should judge about five thousand, about as many whites and Mexicans, and is irrigated in the same manner.

On this irrigated land they raise alfalfa, oats and a little corn. On our next hike we struck out east across the deserts, passing through a mountain range, and a little mining town called Organ, mostly copper mining, stopping at two water mills, called "twin mills," on a chance run by a man named Cox. Our next place about half way across the desert was at the oil wells. Here we had water that tasted just like taking a dose of salts. The next morning we proceeded to Almodoro, New Mexico at the foot of the Sacramento Mountains. This is a nice little town of about five thousand, and gets plenty of pure water from the mountains. We stayed here over Sunday making our trip up in the mountain of pines on Monday, arriving in Cloudcroft, New Mexico, which is mostly a summer resort, the same day.

On this day we made a rise of about six thousand feet passing through a large and deep canyon. Cloudcroft is about nine thousand feet above sea level. Our next day was through the mountains to Head Springs on the Indian reservation near Mesalero. This is where we spent our time building a bridge out of the pine timber about fifty feet high and about seventy-five yards long. We then blew part of it down and rebuilt it again.

While we were here B company took a five day hike up to White Mountain which is about twelve thousand feet high. When you get to the top you can see for miles. We had to leave our horses in care of some of the men, and climb quite a ways, it being so steep.

The Indians on this reservation are the Apache tribe and while we were there they had what you call an Indian pow wow, starting the first of July and lasting four days. They paint all up and dance around a fire, sort of a religious ceremony. They make all kinds of funny noises. If there is any sick ones they dance around them in the same manner. They go on with these dances all night commencing again the next night. About twelve, midnight, they have the circle dance around the fire, where everybody joins in. I stayed up until three one morning and joined in some of the dancing. About two o'clock they start the friendly dance where the men and women are partners. They never say a word to each other. The men turn one way and the women the other, going backward a while then forward, side by side keeping step to the tom-tom. When you get a partner you dance with her the rest of the night.

Well Alma I will close or I will be writing here all night. I will save a little for the next time. I will make this letter do for them down home, also this time. You or Emma or both can answer this. The more the merrier. This is Walter's birthday, if I am not mistaken. I passed my birthday with the Indians this time.

Through you I wish you and Emma would let Louis and Walter know how I am getting along. Tell mamma not to worry about me, as there are nothing here but spicks and they are cowards when it comes to facing you.

Goodbye for this time. Write soon.

Miss Frances Ryan has received the following letter from her brother, John T. Ryan now in France. Miss Ryan has another brother, Raymond F. Ryan, now en route for France.

France, May 19, 1918.
Dear Sister:
As I have not had much of a chance to write you lately I will do it now. I hope everybody is well. This leaves me feeling fine. Have you received any of my letters home yet? I should think you would by this time. I received a letter from Sadie and Emma addressed to me at Quantico some time ago; also the parcel you sent me there.

Well, we have been on the front lines and have moved back now for a rest. I am now in 82nd Co., 6th Reg. and am one of a machine gun crew. I met a good many fellows from Illinois, so we have a little chat now and then. Well, what are you all doing around there? I suppose you all are busy these days. The time goes by pretty rapidly over here, or at least it seems to, and I can tell you that I can sleep well most anywhere now. We get used to all this kind of stuff you know. We get plenty to eat and plenty to wear, also we get tobacco, so we get along pretty good.

Well Fannie as I have not any more news to write you I will close. Write me as soon as you can and tell all. I hope they keep well and enjoy themselves.

Write soon. Tell Mayme and Frank I will write them later.
John Ryan.

DECLARES PRESENT WAR IS ONE OF REVENGE

Pan-German Leader Quoted as Saying That Germany Long Desired War of Retaliation—Wrote Book Entitled "Our National War Goal."

New York, July 20.—The present war is a "war of revenge," long desired by the Pan-Germans, writes Kurt von Strantz, a Pan-German leader, in a book entitled "Our National War Goal," published in Germany. German newspapers received here are quoted as saying:

"In my boyhood days the 'German war of retaliation as we must name this world war, more correctly, was the dream of my life, the realization of which I have never despaired of, although I did doubt that I would live to see it, in view of the unfortunate peace policy followed by the post Bismarckian administration."

"But I have lived to enjoy that happiness. By word and letter I have fought for this war of revenge, which finally is to restore our old national and political frontiers, which we had gradually lost in the east and west since 1855. Neither 1815 nor 1871 restored these frontiers."

"Bismarck started our national rise, but he did not complete it. His discharge impeded the victory promising course, as his successor gave half of German Africa senselessly, without any compensation, to our new arch enemy, England. Therewith began the descent which only this world war could arrest, and which I longed for and foresaw when such thoughts were unpopular."

The Berlin Vorwaerts says that the entire world will learn of this confession with great satisfaction and adds: "If Herr von Strantz had been paid for his book by enemy agents he could not have better worked into the hands of the enemy countries. The book, says the Vorwaerts, is proof of the criminal activities of certain Pan-German circles which now openly boast that they had longed for this war as their greatest happiness."

On the other hand, Belgian troops have occupied seven times as much German territory in German East Africa as the total area of Belgium.

"WARNING"

We are all trying to save every grain of wheat—the thresherman is doing his duty; it is up to you to do yours. There is more grain lost by poor wagon beds than is left in the straw pile. Fifteen bushels of wheat more than pays for a Perfectly Tight First Class Bed. Five years ago it took thirty-seven bushels of wheat to buy a wagon bed, so there is no excuse for not having a bed that will properly deliver to the elevator every grain that is threshed. You know your duty. You know your country is calling for the grain.

For a Few Days We Will Make a Special Price on the Best Trade Bed on the Market--

The Success

Five sills, reinforced bottom over both bolsters. Extra heavy ironing, 7-16 end gate rods, tongue and grooved bottom, angle iron grain cleats. Well painted in oil and lead. With or without spring seat. We just unloaded a car load and have shipped out forty-five already.

TAPS SOUNDED FOR ARTHUR WINNINGHAM

Meredosia Boy Lays Life on Altar of Country—Dies in Colorado of Tuberculosis Contracted at Great Lakes Naval Station.

Meredosia, July 20.—Arthur Winningham of the Great Lakes Naval Training station died at Fort Lyons, Las Animas, Colorado, at 4 o'clock this morning. Deceased enlisted at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, April 6, 1917. After a short time there he contracted tuberculosis and was sent to Fort Lyons, Colo., in the hope of improving his health. However, the change was of little benefit and he continued to grow weaker until the end came.

Arthur Winningham was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winningham and was born in Meredosia, October 11, 1896 and grew to manhood in that place. Besides his parents he is survived by the following brothers and sisters: Owen Winningham, Mrs. Clyde Arnold, Maude Winningham, Mrs. Harry Masterson and Mrs. Jess Davenport, all of Springfield.

Mrs. Winningham and daughter Mrs. Clyde Arnold left for Colorado Thursday evening and were with him when the end came. They left there with the remains today and expect to arrive here Monday. While no definite arrangements have been made it is thought that the funeral will be held Tuesday.

Arthur Winningham was popular in his home village. He is first Meredosia boy to give up his life for his country. It is probable that the funeral services will be held in the public park.

FROM COUNTY AGENT'S OFFICE

Winter Wheat vs Spring Wheat.

At the recent twilight meeting of farmers at the Devore farm representative men from the southern part of the county inspected the spring wheat with unusual interest. A strip of winter wheat was drilled in the standing corn last fall, and then this spring the remainder of the field of each side was seeded with Marquis wheat. The spring wheat has not stood as well as winter wheat, and will not yield as well. The most of the farmers seemed to think the spring wheat would yield in the neighborhood of twenty (20) bushels. At present prices this yield will quite likely compare favorably with that from many an oats field.

Dairy Demonstration Meeting.

As previously announced a meeting of representative dairymen will take place here the afternoon of July 24th. It is planned to make this a demonstration tour to representative dairies in the vicinity. At each stop something will be said to interest every dairymen. Sangamon, Green, Macoupin and Morgan counties will be represented.

Farmers Day at the Jacksonville Chautauqua.

Friday, August 30th has been set aside for an all day picnic of the farmers of Morgan county. The program will be especially attractive. There will be demonstrations in flock culling, lectures on home economics, addresses by Wm. G. Eckhardt and Sidney Smith, and a fine band concert. Every farmer in the county is invised to come in and spend the day.

Vaccination and Worm Gun.
It was a sight worth going a long way to see to observe Dr. Holmes of Springfield and a corps of assistants vaccinate seven hundred (700) spring pigs on the F. E. Drury farm and then give each pig a worm capsule by use of the worm gun. Six or seven men were in the game. Each pig handler caught his pig, held its head downward while Dr. Holmes assistant disinfected the places in the flank selected for vaccination, then the serum and virus were injected, the pig stood on its hind legs, given a capsule with the worm gun, and the operation was complete. It takes some science to produce pork these times.

BLUFFS NEWS TOLD IN BRIEF PARAGRAPHS

Dedication of Service Flag Postponed—Other Bluffs News

Bluffs, July 20.—The dedication of the service flag of the Lutheran church has been postponed on account of the absence of the pastor, Rev. P. A. Sorenson, who is in Burlington, Ia., and was unable to return home Saturday as expected.

Their new U. S. flag will be unfurled and dedicated at the same time which will be announced later.

Mrs. Thomas Reid, Miss Winifred Ashley and Mrs. Ed. Kendall were Springfield visitors Friday.

Mrs. P. T. Curtis and son, David are the guests of relatives at Petersburg.

The appraisers in the Harry Oakes estate completed the appraisal of personal property and placed present valuation of same at $73,600. However, if the season is right for the ripening of crops, etc., the valuation will be near $100,000. The appraisers were Henry Rolf, Clarence McCaleb and Merton Abbott.

Mrs. Harry Nelson entertained twelve of her friends at her home Friday night in honor of her 35th wedding anniversary.

The following were present and enjoyed her generous hospitality: Mrs. Fred York, Mrs. N. E. H. Kellem and daughter, Miss Nina; Mesdames, P. red Jording, Ada Quintal, Martin Nash, Fred Hawk, Harry McIntire and Mrs. Hedrick. The evening was spent in a social manner until a late hour when the hostess served refreshments of cream and three varieties of cake. The couple were the recipients of several nice remembrances among which were several pieces of cut glass ware. At a late hour and after visiting Mrs. Nelson an ideal hostess the guests departed for their homes each wishing the couple many more as pleasant wedding anniversaries.

Raymond Robinson is the guest of his grand parents in Clayton this week.

Miss Vera Altie of Clayton is visiting at the J. F. Robinson home this week.

NEW BOOKS AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Anderson—Flying, Submarines and Mine Sweeping.

Azan—Warfare of Today. Colonel Azan, who is chief of the French instructors in the training camps of the middle and eastern states, is probably the best known French officer now in this country. On page 26 of his book he says: "No, indeed, victory is not easy. Yet, if it is not possible to trace the exact road which future victorious armies must follow, it is still possible to exhibit the simple general principles which will open the road to them. The principles which bring success in war are in a large measure, the same as those which bring success in business. For that reason the Americans will be the first to grasp them."

Rasmussen—Kultur in Cartoons.

Swinton—The Tanks. Mr. Frederick Palmer, American war correspondent, has estimated that in the latter stages of the battle of the Somme, the intervention of the tanks saved some 2,000 lives and subsequent estimates of the assistance rendered by them are similar.

FOOD PRODUCTION.

Directions for Spraying Fruit Trees in Illinois. Gives direction for summer sprays, as well as those in the spring, and includes directions for making and mixing the standard sprays.

Fred—Inoculation of Legumes.

Grow Better Potatoes.

Lovely—Portulaca. Experience of a Practical Hog Man.

Moore—Soy Beans, a Crop Worth Growing.

Read—Late Cabbage. The author is a practical grower, not only of cabbage, but also of other vegetables. He says that because life is too short to learn everything by experience and manipulation, he has gathered together in this book not only the results of his own experience, but also the best of the experimental work of the great colleges throughout the cabbage belt.

School and Home Gardens.

BEES.

Edwards—The Lore of the Honey Bee.

Illinois State Bee Keepers Association—Seventh Annual Report.

POULTRY.

How to Fight Tuberculosis of Poultry.

Pearl—Diseases of Poultry.

FOOD CONSERVATION.

Food Conservation Programs for Meetings of Clubs.

Fransden—Farm Cheese Making.

Hints on What to Eat During the War.

Rinkle—Farm Cheese Making.

Use Peanut Flour to Save Wheat.

LITERATURE.

Gogol—Inspector. General. "To place a purely literary valuation on the Inspector General and call it the greatest of Russian comedies would not convey the significance of its position either in Russian literature or in Russian life itself. There is no other single work in modern literature of any language that carries with it the wealth of associations which the Inspector General does to the educated Russian. It is a national institution."—Thomas Seltzer.

Kilmer—Dreams and Images. An anthology of Catholic poets.

Stark—Anthology of Swedish Lyrics.

"For Poetry's not as a bow in the sky.

Or volatile perfume of flowers. The beauty you make is not dust that shall die—

The ages but quicken its powers."—Ezra Tegner.

SOCIOLOGY.

Forman—The Woman Voter's Manual.

Page—Dramatic Moments in American Diplomacy. "Extremely interesting, both in subject and the manner of treatment. The author's purpose is to picture the outstanding figures and big dramatic actions in our dealings overseas which should be common knowledge to all Americans, but is not. Of particular interest is Germany's behavior to the United States at the time of the Spanish-American war."—A. L. A. Bkl.

SCIENCE.

Grant—The Passing of the Great Race. "European history has been written in terms of nationality and language, but never before in terms of race. Yet race has played a far larger part than either language or nationality in moulding the destinies of men; race implies heredity and heredity implies all the moral, social and intellectual characteristics and traits which are the springs of politics and government."—Henry Fairfield Osborn, research professor of zoology, Columbia University.

Migod—Earliest Man. A sketch of the evolution of man from his simian ancestry.

HOUSING.

Embury—The Livable House; Its Plan and Design.

Fallon—How to Make Concrete Garden Furniture.

Housing for Women in War Work.

EDUCATION.

Annual Report of the Federal Board for Vocational Education.

Harrison—Intermediate Spanish Reader.

Fosdick—The Meaning of Faith.

FOR INSPIRATION.

Reading for Pleasure and Profit.

A list of books to read. "Go with men people and you think that life is mean. Then read Plutarch, and the world is a proud place."—Emerson.

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER.

Editor Journal:

I understand that Captain J. M. Swales has filed his petition for a place on the ballot as county commissioner at the ensuing primary September 11. In my opinion, he ought to be nominated by acclamation and all opposition should disappear. His splendid war record is known to most of our citizens and his stand for vigorous prosecution of the present world war against the ruthless, frightfulness and disregard of all international laws of war and humanity as practiced by Germany in the present war, is also known to our people. Since America was forced into the great conflict he and his comrades of the local Grand Army Post have always been on hand to escort the boys of the new grand army in the making to the train and by their presence lent an inspiration to the boys who are soon to be fighting and dying that freedom shall prevail throughout the world. No man in this community has worked harder to arouse the people to a sense of their patriotic duty than has Captain Swales in the present crisis. His life history has been one of devotion to the flag, his country and the cause of good government. Four years in the great crusade for freedom for all men regardless of creed, or previous condition of servitude, surely entitle him to the consideration of the voters of Morgan county. He stands four square for law enforcement and is a believer in the principles of the greatest good to the greatest number and a square deal for every man and woman in this broad land, made safe for human habitation by such men as he and his comrades of the sixties. Elect him and you will soon see a monument erected to the memory of the brave men who marched forth to glory and the grave in the long ago. And it will not be necessary to call an indignation meeting to force him to carry out the will of the people as expressed at his polls, as was the case in this city not so many months ago. I have known him and can say truthfully that his private life will average up with the best citizens in historic old Morgan county where he has always lived. His character for honesty and veracity will bear the searchlight of the most exacting critic in Jacksonville. Besides all this I would like to remind some people that it would not be the proper thing to fight a worthy soldier who gave the four best years of his life that all people throughout the length and breadth of this great republic might rest in security beneath the banner carried by those who brought it back from a thousand battle fields and cleansed from the foul stain of human bondage and without the loss of a single star. In my opinion we cannot do too much for those whose valor made it possible for us to raise an army of ten million men, if necessary, to smash autocracy and spread democracy and universal freedom throughout this war stricken world. Think it over.

Yours very respectfully,

T. B. Orter.

CORN DROPS FIFTEEN CENTS PER BUSHEL

CHICAGO, July 20.—Drastic liquidation sent corn down today to about 15c a bushel before the Franco-American counter-offensive began. The close was nervous 1 to 2 1/2c under finish with
August 1 1/2c to 1 1/4c to 1 1/2c.
Oats lost 3/4 to 5/8c net. In provisions the outcome ranged from 3c decline to 15c advance.

Bearish sentiment due to war news received further impetus from perfect weather prevailing throughout the corn belt and also from continued liberal arrivals at primary centers. Besides country's offerings were large. Covering by shorts had but little lasting influence.

Oats declined with corn but selling was only scattered.
Strength in the hog market
gave some firmness to provisions but this was checked by bearish action of grain.

Irvin S. Cobb and the Advantages of Being Homely

Irvin S. Cobb is no Spring Beauty, and he admits it. He does not deny being homely. In his many and varied experiences he has found some advantages in being homely as he explains in the July American Magazine.

One evening Mr. Cobb and his editor attended the Billy Sunday meetings in New York and occupied seats on the benches reserved for the press, he to report the revival, the editor, as Cobb thought, because editors need all the salvation they can get. As the throng was hitting the sawdust trail to shake Billy's hand, a man halted in front of Cobb with the air of one who had just made an interesting discovery and said to him "Say, I know you from your pictures in the papers. No two of those pictures look alike, but they all look like you." He introduced himself and proved to be a clergyman. Cobb introduced him in turn to his boss and the minister promptly transferred his interest to the editor. Cobb thought that the minister's experienced eye instantly discerned that of the two, the editor stood more in need of the benefit of the clergy. Before Mr. Cobb and the editor parted company, Cobb agreed to write an article on the advantages of being conspicuously homely and promptly forgot to do so. Soon he had a letter from the editor written on expensive paper by a stenographer who spelled better than any editor ever could spell, begging haste in the preparation of the article as it was to be printed in the next number with illustrations by Tony Sarg, along with pictures of stage beauties, moving picture heroes and those youths who pose for union suit advertisements.

So, Mr. Cobb wrote his lines to serve a public duty by setting forth the advantages bestowed upon any man who is undesignedly and a vowed homely in the face-uncompromisingly and contrivably so homely with a stalwart and sterling homeliness which is neither to be gained or denied.

Mr. Cobb has no objection to children being beautiful or young girls being beautiful or to women of whatsoever age being beautiful, but insists for a man not to be homely is his misfortune. The handsome male starts with a handicap at the cradle. Women of all ages coo over him, and talk baby talk to him, and chuckle him and kiss him, yes kiss him, when he is too young to appreciate these attentions. If he is a pretty boy, he is forced to wear his hair long and go about in public with a broad lace collar and a black velvet suit with a sash about his waist and submit to being called offensively apt names. And worse of all if his beauty persists until he reaches manhood, no matter how persistently he struggles against the odds of fate, he becomes a matinee idol, a movie hero or a floor walker in a department store.

Meanwhile the homely men are leading the world's armies and shaping the world's commerce and guiding the ship of state over stormy seas to a safe harbor. Homely men are not concerned about their looks.

Almost anything that may happen to them will be for the better. The kick of a mule, the wound of a bullet, or the wallop of an adversary's fist in the face only add to the picturesque irregularity of their features. With such men time spent before a looking glass is time wasted. Accordingly, they do not waste it. Socrates had a knobby forehead and a nose which appeared to have been stuck on upside down but his record still stands after the wear and tear of centuries.

Caesar was as bald as a spring onion and angular of face besides, but there has been a remarkably small acreage of Caesars. Dante was nobody's pretty boy, but his writings still survive. Cromwell's face was a seamy background for some of the most prominent warts in the annals of the Anglo-Saxon race. Wellington's nose, part beak and part bugle, jutted forth, a beesting promontory across the ruck of the forehead. Goldsmith looked as though he might have acquired his face at a rummage sale, but he could sling an effective pen. Ben Franklin's face never did jell properly, but he was a most pleasing person. Old Hickory Jackson might have been mistaken in the dark for somebody's family horse. Lincoln the homeliest man of his generation was also the greatest and the most human. Roosevelt, has never been a candidate for honors in a beauty contest, although he has entered almost every other kind of competition. Uncle Joe Cannon is not a professional beauty, he is not even a good amateur beauty. As for Mr. Cobb himself, he is a homely fellow, but he is a newspaper reporter, he describes a current public celebrity as a heavy weight champion from the neck down and a light weight champion from the neck up and the very next day received a letter from a close friend of the pugilist saying "I have never seen you face to face, but have often seen your pictures, and I wish to say to you that you are no Lillian Russell yourself."

Men appreciate the value of a homely face as a trade mark. Mr. Cobb cites the man who made the three dollar shoe famous, the man who invented the safety razor, the individual who purveyed talcum powder—none genuine without the picture; the two brothers both greatly favored by nature in the matter of whiskers, who turned out the cough drop and the smooth domed genius whose specialty was chewing gum for the masses. These men appreciated the fact that the people of this country like honest homeliness wherever found.

And now, Mr. Cobb is bringing his honest homeliness, homeliness which is neither to be said or denied, to the Chattanooga platform and will appear at the Jacksonville Chautauqua on the afternoon of Friday August 23, the opening day of assembly—and tell his many admiring readers of this community of his experiences and observations in France and Flanders whence he has just returned. The Jacksonville Chautauqua Aug. 23 to Sept. 1, inclusive.

OPEN LETTER.

Mr. Editor: A full discussion of the change to be voted on August 13 is to the advantage of every citizen of Jacksonville. If it is better to change they want to know it. Let those who want the commission form of government give the people facts, not theories but conditions, and point out what benefit it has been to our city. We never were under the general law that we now vote for. At the time the city changed its special charter it did not accept the general law that nearly all the cities of the State are under. It had to have a special minority representation which made it necessary to have three aldermen from each ward. This time that is cut out and we are wholly under the general law, which makes it compulsory to have an even number as one half of them shall be elected each year, which for this city will be four new members, bringing the city government close to the people.

As it is now we hand the city over to men with absolute power to run it as they please for four years—the principal reason that the city did not change at the last election that was held for that purpose was that there was a new board, hand picked by church and state and the people wished to give them a chance for a fair trial. Now they have had it and by their works show that the commission form of government is no good for Jacksonville, which for the first time is bankrupt—can not pay its employees but must give them pay checks that they are offering at 20 per cent discount. It is no use saying it is the increased price of wages and material as taxes have gone to the high water mark of $5.17, as you will find by looking on the back of your tax receipts. And that together with the fact that our valuations were very low when the amounts were taxed on one fifth valuations, and when the change to taxing on one third valuations came it made our taxes or cash valuations higher than Chicago or Springfield. So real estate that pays nearly all the taxes will not bear an increase, even tho our mayor and others who own no real estate as they say taxes are too high for it to be profitable, are perfectly willing they should be increased. So let us vote the change and the eight aldermen and mayor will have little trouble in putting our good city on a cash basis.

A. Platt.

PETERSBURG MAN WILL PREACH TODAY.

W. M. Groves, of Petersburg, Ill., is well known in the state, not only as a church minister of the Christian church, but also as past grand master of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. A few years ago he resigned as pastor of the church at Petersburg and became a candidate for representative in the legislature; he was elected to this office on the local option issue. Although at present cashier-cashier of the Frankleton bank of his home city and a member of the board of elders of his home church, very seldom a Sunday passes that he is not ministering to some neighboring congregation. He will preach regularly at the Central Christian church during the absence of Rev. M. L. Pontius at the army camp. Mr. Groves will deliver the address tonight at the union meeting on the Congregational lawn.

Service

It is often noted how food is improved by service. It is a human trait to believe that candy proves more delicious when packed in a pretty box. Service means a whole lot, because there is that element added to merchandise that makes the purchase of that merchandise more desirable through being more satisfactory.

Service with us is an important element of our business. It is one of the chief means of our local success—to please you, to make a friend of you. The best of service is accorded to all who enter our store, and this without partiality, because we want you to come again and again of your own free will.

So we exert every possible effort to please you, to satisfy you, that you will be willing to trade with us for not only the quality of our goods and the fair prices we submit, but for the service as well.

We will please you if you will let us. We ask you to believe that we take an altogether better interest in your welfare than you will ordinarily find in stores elsewhere. Your own neighborhood drug store will do more for you when your home druggist is permitted the opportunity.

LIBERATI'S CONCERT BAND AND GRAND OPERA COMPANY
Thirty Musicians, Sixteen Singers and Two Dancers.

Under the personal direction of the world-renowned cornet virtuoso and band master, Alexander Liberati, Liberati's Band is one of the oldest and most successful musical institutions in America. Mr. Liberati began his musical career as first cornetist in the King's Brigade of the Italian Army a half century ago. He served in the French Army and was captured by the Germans. After that war he came to America and became master of band in the Canadian Army. Later he came to the United States and organized and conducted for many years a famous military band. His name is familiar to music lovers throughout our country. No cornetist or band master, past or present, has a finer record than Liberati based as it is wholly on merit and the consequent results of artistic performance.

Liberati's singers and dancers are selected from the Grand Opera Companies of New York and Chicago. His soloists are Miss Anna Buck, Miss Katherine Klarer, Sig. Amadeo Baldi, Sig.

Joseph de Luchi and Mr. A. Kaplan.

This organization renders music played, sung, and rendered in various forms or individual or collective styles by artists under the direction of its distinguished leader who is not niggardly himself in sprinkling his splendid cornet solos thru his splendid programs. We have heard the Anvil Chorus with electrical effects and some six instrumentalists and been thrilled with the sextet from "Lucia" as allotted its numerical strength, but Liberati introduces a triple sextet and how they make the furthest nook of the auditorium echo with that marvelous and ever fresh melody. Hardly has the inspiring sextet been stilled when forth troops a perfect charge of trumpets and trombone players and, with Liberati himself leading the van, such outbursts of harmony are not often heard. It is not the usual blatant, noisy demonstration, but a musically effective combination, swelling in great sounds until a stirring climax is attained.

Band music has individuality when Liberati is on the stand and a cornet is no longer a mere twist of brass and keys in his hand. They are means to an end, and that end is the realm of harmony and wonderful execution. There are plenty of soloists and the programs are so mixed that they please everyone. Liberati is famous for his ability to select programs which please his audiences. His Chautauqua program will include patriotic, war-time and popular music, the best known marches, and overtures from the grand operas.

Liberati's Concert Band and Grand Opera Company will render four full programs at the Chautauqua on the afternoons and evenings of Thursday, August 29, and Friday, August 30. Rarely indeed, do the people of communities like ours, and even more rarely, do Chautauqua audiences have the opportunity of enjoying a musical organization of the quality and size of this old, successful and famous band and concert company.

Jacksonville Chautauqua.
Aug. 24 to Sept. 1, inclusive.

INDEES WILL HAVE STRONG TEAM TODAY

Springfield Merchants Will Take on Local Team—St. Joseph Canceled Game—New Men in Line-up.

Manager Smith has booked the Springfield Merchants for the game at West Side park this afternoon. The Merchants were booked here before but rain caused a postponement of the game.

The Merchants are considered one of the strongest, if not the strongest team in Springfield. In its lineup is Lofton an old Three Eye League star and other players well known to local fans. The St. Joseph Athletics were booked for today but cancelled the game and Manager Smith was fortunate in finding the Merchants with an open date.

The locals will present a changed lineup in the field for the game and it will add greatly to the strength of the team. Denny who has been out of the game for several weeks will be seen at short and Dick Rubie, the well known Murrayville player will be at second. This will give the Indies a strong infield and also a great deal more power in the attack.

Springfield will have Fred Hartman on the mound. He is considered one of the best hurlers in this section and will make the locals step to beat him. Manager Smith is undecided who will start for the Indies. He has Kitchen, Day and McDaniel and the one who shows the most stuff will get the assignment.

The teams will lineup as follows:

Merchants—Ford, c; Hartman, p; Federhan, 1b; Foss, 2b; Fisher, ss; E. Reisch, 3b; Alweir, rf; Richardson, cf; Lonon, lf.
Indies—McDaniel, Day, Kitchen, p; Beerup, c; Christopher, 1b; Denny, 2b; Rubie, ss; DeFrates, 3b; DeSilva, lf; F. Smith, cf; Gillis, rf; O. Smith, utility.

The Twelve-Month-A-Year Kitchen Range

IF YOU use a wood or coal range it makes your kitchen too hot in the Summer; if you use a gas or oil stove, it doesn't keep your kitchen warm in the Winter. Two ranges are a waste of money, for the DUPLEX ALCAZAR gives you two kitchen ranges in one.

It is made in two types: one burns wood or coal and gas; the other uses wood or coal and oil. No changes necessary to use the different fuels singly or in combination. The DUPLEX ALCAZAR is always ready to do its part in cutting fuel costs, bettering cooking results and keeping your kitchen comfortable the year 'round.
